National Congress of Public Services installed in the state of Sucre

During the congress they outlined roadmaps with solutions

The Sectoral Vice President of Public Works and Services, G/J Nestor Reverol, pointed out that this Friday the National Congress of Public Services, Sucre chapter, was installed in Cumaná, with the purpose of “to know directly the requirements of their communities, through Social Cartography, which allows for early victories in basic services.”

On the other hand, he added that, together with the governor of the entity, Gilberto Pinto, “we are with the people of Sucre empowered by their territory, in a joint effort with the different levels of government, dependencies and institutions of the Vice Presidency of the Public Services and the deputies of the AN”.

In addition, he pointed out that “in eastern lands we meet again with the organized People's Power, this time, from the state of Sucre, in the National Congress of Public Services, and that they will continue to advance, improve and optimize public services throughout the country”.

Finally, the Sectorial Vice President of Public Works and Services stated that this activity of the National Congress of Public Services is based on the 3R.NETS (Resistance-Renaissance-Revolution), instructed by the President of the Republic, Nicolás Maduro Moros, to create a map of service solutions.

For his part, Governor Gilberto Pinto asserted that “we want to promote a National Network of Services to recover the welfare state that was hit by unilateral coercive measures.” (Credits MPEE/LRDS)

It is expected to respond to the requirements of the communities

In the framework of World Earth Day

With the blessing of the Cumanagoto people, the cleaning work begins of the Coral Unomia Stolonifera

On April 22, World Earth Day, from the banks of the Neverí River in the city of Barcelona, Anzoátegui state, the Minister of People's Power for Ecosocialism, Josué Lorca received the blessing of the Shaman of the Cumanagoto people on behalf of our indigenous ancestral peoples, giving the green light to start cleaning the invasive coral Unomia Stolonifera in Mochima National Park.

Likewise, Minister Lorca reported that, together with Governor Luis José Marcano, they are working on the rehabilitation of the Andrés Eloy Blanco Park in the Sotillo Municipality, in turn strengthening the swearing-in of the Brigades Against Climate Change and the Guardians of the Tree.

Minister Lorca reflected on the meaning of World Earth Day: "every April 22 the whole world reflects on the negative actions of human beings that directly impact the planet and we, hand in hand with President Nicolás Maduro, join to this call of nature with concrete, forceful actions and strengthened by a youth that is becoming more aware every day in this fight against climate change and that guarantees us the fulfillment of the 5th Objective of the Plan for the Homeland (Plan de la Patria)".

The works received the blessing of the native peoples

Start of sanitation works in Mochima

Likewise, Minister Lorca announced that the equipment for cleaning up the invasive coral Unomia Stolonifera had been installed in different plots of the Mochima National Park; among them El Faro, Chimana, Isla Arapo and Bahía El Saco.

With these works, it is estimated that 3,000 hectares of this coral from the Asian continent will be cleaned, which colonizes our reefs and is sharp for human beings.

Finally, he made a call to join efforts in this task "we require the support and the sum of all the wills, political, civil and above all of the scientific community to strengthen this study, since this invasive coral is approximately 17 years old in the country, and it is lethal to our coral colonies, suffocating them and therefore affecting our marine fauna, fishing activity and the food supply of our people".

Lorca reported the installation of sanitation equipment

Before the complaints

Minister Lorca inspected environmental damage in Parcelamiento Villa Zamora 21 in Guatire

Lorca verified the complaints received

In order to carry out the due expertise and technical report, the People's Power Minister for Ecosocialism, Josué Lorca, and specialized personnel, inspected the Villa

Zamora 21 Plot, located in the Territorial Industrial Zone of the town of Guatire, in the municipality Zamora, Miranda.

The head of Ecosocialism was accompanied by the Inspection and Forest Heritage teams of the Ministry of Ecosocialism (Minec), in addition to the experts dependent on the director of the Special Service of Administrative Police and Criminal Investigation for Ecosocialism, in charge of the General Division José Betancourt

Moya, who approached the place.

In the place, the commission of experts was received by Reina Exiquio and Bernardo Ruiz, inhabitants of the community, who explained what happened and guided the technicians and authorities.

The commission determined that trees were felled in the area without the proper permits, of species protected by the Venezuelan State and considered prohibited.

The results of the expert opinion will be recorded in a report that will be transferred to the higher authorities so that the corresponding measures can be taken due to what happened.

In the state of La Guaira

More than 30 cardon turtle hatchlings released in the population of La Sabana

More than 30 hatchlings of the Cardón turtle species (Dermochelys coriacea), were released this weekend in the town of La Sabana in the Carrao parish, in the state of La Guaira.

The animals were in the care of the community after hatching in the early hours of Sunday, in an incubation process that took between 55 and 60 days, during which the locals were attentive to the nests.

The residents organized themselves to prepare for the liberation with the fall of the Sunday afternoon, in an action that had a festive meaning through the protagonism of children and adults.

The batch of turtles was moved to the shores of the beach, in order to reduce the possibility of attacks by predators and increase the chances of survival of the hatchlings.

The activity was accompanied by the staff of the General Di-

REFLECTIONS ON ECOSOCIALISM

Living good: a philosophy of life and government

By Josué Alejandro Lorca

Living good or good Living, is a series of principles proposed by the indigenous peoples of the Andean Altiplano, in particular the Aymara peoples, who have found many followers throughout the continent who, reviewing more deeply, are configured in philosophical postulates for the enjoyment of a life to the full.

Good Living is knowing how to live in harmony and balance, with ourselves, with the environment, it is about leading a life in harmony with the cycles of Mother Earth, the cosmos, life, history and in balance with all forms of existence. That is precisely the path and the horizon of the community; it implies first knowing how to live and then living together (1).

It is about understanding that you cannot Live Well if others live badly, or if Mother Earth is damaged. Living Well means understanding that the deterioration of a species is the deterioration of the whole. It might seem obvious, but in reality it is a powerful logic, which unfortunately not the entire consumer society puts at the center of social debate. The progressive revolutionary processes of the 21st century that have arisen in these first 20 years in the Great Homeland have pointed to this logic in various ways. However, the greatest achievements are achieved by countries such as Bolivia and Venezuela, which have reflected the Bolivarian thinking about how we have been colonizing our environmental thinking, our relationship with nature since the arrival of the colonizers 500 years ago, thanks and from the hand of the Bolivian Philosopher Rafael Bautista Segales, soon I will be giving you this literary work.

In our case, we also appeal to the thought of our Liberator Simón Bolívar, whose legacy is embodied in the Constitution promoted by Commander Chávez in 1999 and transforms Living Well into a fundamental political objective of the government.

We are talking about Bolivarian doctrine when we say that: "A good government is the one that produces the greatest amount of happiness possible for its people"; we are affirming that the objective of a good government is to create the conditions so that the people can develop Living Well.

It is a very interesting perspective object of study and depth. Look, deep down the task is shared; On the one hand, the government must create the optimal conditions for Living Well to develop, which in this case would trans-doctrine and the ancestral doctrine in their respective constitutional charters.

So we see how Good Living is not only a philosophy of life, it has also become a philosophy of government. I take advantage of telling you that to reflect a little more on this, I have been studying and wri-late as the greatest amount of happiness possible. On the other hand, the people, leveraged by the conditions created by the State, self-realize and empower themselves in community to achieve their happiness. That is why we speak of People-Government co-responsibility.

In practice, despite the unilateral coercive measures, aimed precisely at stopping this alternative project to the model imposed by the imperialist countries, the Bolivarian Government has taught millions to read and write, has created a public health system, has built 4 million homes, has including access to university education for all, the list of achievements is long and would continue to be extended. These are the conditions for the people to develop Living Well.

In short, although there are postulates of what it means to live well, it is everyone's task as a sovereign people to define: what happiness is and how to determine the largest possible sum that can be obtained. And the government will efficiently build plans to achieve the goal. This is the formula that Supreme Commander Hugo Chávez proposed 23 years ago, which, despite internal and external attacks, continues to stand victorious thanks to the efforts and will of President Nicolás Maduro.

Living good is living in harmony with nature, living good is loving, honoring and respecting our planet!

I share with Venezuela and the world, for its analysis, study and deep debate, the book: "El Ecosocialismo". We are witnessing a change of era in which each and every one of us can contribute to the preservation and salvation of our Pachamama.

From the beautiful spaces of the "Ezequiel Zamora" Park, together with all the health personnel, I celebrated the 19th anniversary of the Barrio Adentro Mission. How many roads and neighborhoods has the Army in white coats traveled to protect and care for the People. My admiration always!

Very happy to see the achievements made in the country, thanks to the strengthening of the National Livestock Production. With the participation of socio-productive units of Popular Power and powerful alliances, we are producing wealth for the country. It's a new era!
