Reopened Andrés Eloy Blanco Recreational Park in Puerto La Cruz

Ministerial, national, regional and municipal authorities participated in the reopening ceremony of the Andrés Eloy Blanco Recreational Park, located in the city of Puerto La Cruz, in the Sotillo municipality of Anzoátegui state.

The ceremony was attended by the People's Power Minister for Ecosocialism, Josué Lorca, his Tourism counterpart, Ali Padrón, the Attorney General of the Republic, Tarek William Saab, the entity's governor, Luis José Marcano, and Mayor Sotillo, Nelson Moreno, among other personalities.

During his speech, the head of Ecosocialism stressed that "we are in a new Venezuela, in the rebirth of the Homeland, different and diversified".

The Minister asked the attendees to "continue accompanying them, believing in the Bolivarian Revolution, in President Maduro".

For his part, the Public Prosecutor, Tarek William Saab, expressed his satisfaction at being at the reopening of the Park".

"This was a wasteland and some trees. We had the vision at that time to make the paths, the walk of the poets, build a small park in each bust, a mini plaza.

He pointed out that the place "is the most important vegetable lung in the east of the country, by size and by square meter this park symbolizes that, and is among the main parks in Venezuela".

Minister Lorca together with a group of authorities carried out the reopening

"The important thing is to maintain and improve what has been achieved, so that what happened 10 years ago does not happen again: that the park fell into the most disgraceful of oblivions. Suddenly, where there was green, water, birds flying and people jogging, it became a desert, in absolute desolation", he said.

Prizes awarded to the winners of the poetry contest

At the event, Minister Josué Lorca presented the prizes to the winners of the three categories of the First Life and Planet Poetry Contest, in which 136 contestants from 18 states in the country participated.

The children Andrea Victoria Hernández, 10 years old, was favored with the first place in the children's line with the poetry "El carnation and the crying rose"; while Iris Belisario Toro, 39, from the state of Mérida, achieved the first position in adults with the poem "Headline of the New York Times". Meanwhile, Zul Mujica, 25, from Anzoátegui, was awarded second place with the poetry "El llanto de cemento".

Venezuelan State prepares for COP27

Ministers Lorca and Faría analyzed cooperation strategies

With the aim of specifying the aspects to be handled at the 27th United Nations Conference on Climate Change in 2022 (COP27), which will take place between November 6 and 18, in Sharm El Sheikh, Egypt, the Minister of Popular Power for Ecosocialism, Josué Lorca, spoke with his counterpart from Foreign Affairs, Carlos Faría.

The meeting reviewed the international agreements and the strategies that Venezuela develops to combat climate change, in addition to the actions to face environmental challenges.

COP27 promotes global climate talks, mobilizes action and can provide a significant opportunity to analyze the impacts of climate change.

The Presidency of COP27 has set out to achieve significant progress on the crucial issue of climate finance, in addition to seeking the union to limit global warming to well below 2 degrees Celsius (C) and working hard to keep alive the objective of the 1.5 oC.

Ciudad Caribia

They will build the headquarters of Guardians of the Tree and Brigades against Climate Change

The People's Power Minister for Ecosocialism, Josué Lorca, visited the spaces of the Ciudad Caribia urban planning, with the purpose of inspecting the sector in which the headquarters for the Guardians of the Tree and the Brigades against Climate Change will be built.

The inspection is in accordance with the indications given by President Nicolás Maduro, contemplated in the 3rd vertex of Good Living, referring to safe places for the enjoyment, recreation and living well of the Venezuelan population.

In the place, the head of Ecosocialism evaluated the current conditions of the site, together with the Single Authority of Ciudad Caribia, Admiral José Luis Pestana, and the representative of the Black Force company, Diego Bernal.

"Being part of this team requires constant training, which ends up being almost a duty to always be up to date with environmental events and natural needs that need to be covered" he

He added that the institution will continue "unstoppable in the training of new members, promotions and recognition of this great family, which are the heroes and heroines of the Homeland!".

In protection of the environment

Generate mechanisms to combat illegal mining in the country

The Bolivarian National Armed Forces (FANB) works together with the National Land Institute (INTI), the Venezuelan Mining Corporation (CVM) and the Citizen Security Organs (OSC), to eradicate illegal mining in Bolívar state.

"Operation Roraima Bolivarian Shield 2022, FANB, INTI, CVM, indigenous peoples, CSOs and other entities, act together to eradicate the depredation of the vegetal lung and exploitation of illegal mining in the Sierra de Imataca and other protected areas of the Bolívar state", wrote Domingo Hernández Lárez, Strategic Operational Commander of the FANB, on his Twitter account @dhernandezlarez.

He added that the Bolivarian Militia is also in the Amazon jungle, "fighting illegal mining and smuggling".

"The geographical space of Venezuela is a territory of peace. Installations or camps for military purposes, illegal mining, drug trafficking and others may not be established in it. The threats against the sovereignty and security of the Homeland will be extirpated from the national territory," Hernández pointed out.

National Committee for Waste Electrical and Electronic Equipment

Promote recycling activities to reduce waste

Manage e-waste efficiently

The headquarters of the Ministry of People's Power for Ecosocialism (Minec), served to hold the first meeting of the National Committee for Waste Electrical and Electronic Equipment (RAEE).

The meeting was held in compliance with the guidelines issued by the head of Ecosocialism, Josué Lorca, exposed on July 27 during the installation of the committee.

With the meeting, it is sought to establish technical working groups to promote recycling activities without pretending to replace an efficient waste and waste management service.

In addition, the design of policies aimed at reducing the generation of residues and waste, the coordinated work of public and private companies, and the focus on specific waste and waste streams are sought.

Also, it is intended to promote shared but differentiated responsibilities in the product life cycle (Extended Producer Responsibility).

The meeting was attended by representatives of producers, public and private institutions, Citizen Power and Minec, as coordinator.

In this regard, the National Technical Coordinator of the Electronic Waste Project for Latin America in the Venezuela chapter, Alfredo Pérez, indicated that an attempt is being made to establish the work structure and responsibilities that each one of those who make up this committee will carry out.

"The development of the National WEEE Strategy was discussed, which is expected to be in place in the coming days," he said.

Verify methodologies for the characterization of ballast water in ports

In order to follow up on the methodologies for the characterization of ballast water in ports, the Ministry of People's Power for Ecosocialism (Minec), held a meeting with representatives of Bolivariana de Puertos (Bolipuertos) and the National Institute of Aquatic Spaces (INEA).

The meeting is part of the actions that are carried out in terms of conservation, protection and environmental sanitation, as well as the comprehensive ecosocialist management of waste and residues, carried out by the General Directorate of Environmental Quality of Minec.

The appointment also served to notify the representatives of Bolipuertos and INEA, about the requirements demanded by the Minec for the registration in the Registry of Environmental Laboratories, and regarding the companies that collect waste and non-hazardous waste that must be registered in the Registry of Companies Recovering Usable Materials.

For the Environmental Movements

They develop a workshop on "the obligation of the human right to environmental education in Venezuela"

On the occasion of the commemoration of the month and World Day of Environmental Movements and Organizations, the Ministry of People's Power for Ecosocialism (Minec), carried out the Eco-workshop "The obligation of the human right to environmental education in Venezuela."

The induction took place in the Waraira room Repano located on the sixth floor of the Minec headquarters in the South Tower of El Silencio, in the center of the capital, a space that is shared with the Universidad Popular del Ambiente Fruto Vivas (UPAFV).

The Minec, the UPAFV and the Ombudsman's Office (DP), promote these initiatives with the purpose of continuing with the generation of information, education and training, in the promotion of cultural, historical and environmental aesthetic values.

The content of the meetings indicates that the environment, the natural and cultural heritage, are transversal axes of all areas in which life takes place, environmental human rights and natural rights of Mother Earth.

The activity lasted 5 academic hours and was attended by 103 participants who received their certificates and from now on become promoters of the environmental issue.

According to David Álvarez, Director of Dissemination of the General Directorate of Training, these workshops are part of the information cycle of the instance in which he works, to continue with ecosocialist training.

"It is aimed at the general public, Minec servers, university students, brigades against climate change, park rangers, forest firefighters and guest workers from other institutions," said Álvarez.

Minec presented a paper "Geopolitics of the Climate Crisis"

The Ministry of People's Power for Ecosocialism (Minec), presented the paper "Geopolitics of the Climate Crisis", whose speaker was Rafael Bautista Segales, prologue writer of the book "Towards the decolonization of environmental thought", written by the head of Ecosocialism, Josué Lorca.

The central objective of the exhibition was to offer a vision of how the countries that are currently powers, such as Russia and China, are organized in terms of the use of natural resources for economic production, without generating an irreversible impact on Mother Earth, oriented to a new form of non-capitalist system.

The activity is part of a series of conferences, meetings, talks and videoconferences that the Minec organizes for the workers of the institution, in order to offer them a panorama of knowledge on environmental matters with an ecosocialist perspective.

The conference brought together an estimated 50 participants who, at the end, presented different questions regarding the topic.
