To combat the climate crisis, promote awareness and protect people from environmental impact

Sixth goal proposed by President Nicolás Maduro is ecological

During his speech before the National Assembly (AN) to present his Annual Message to the Nation, the President of the Bolivarian Republic of Venezuela, Nicolás Maduro Moros, proposed seven objectives, which he called Seven Transformations (7T), whose bases have already been cemented by the 3R.Nets, in order to advance in the development of the country towards a new model of well-being.

Objective number six or 6T, is related to ecology, which is aimed at adding actions to combat the climate crisis, promoting awareness and protecting the people from environmental impact, as well as safeguarding the Amazon and natural reserves from the voracity of capitalism.

"When Commander Chávez proposed the Fifth Historic Objective, we had not yet entered a climate emergency, in 2012", affirmed the National President.

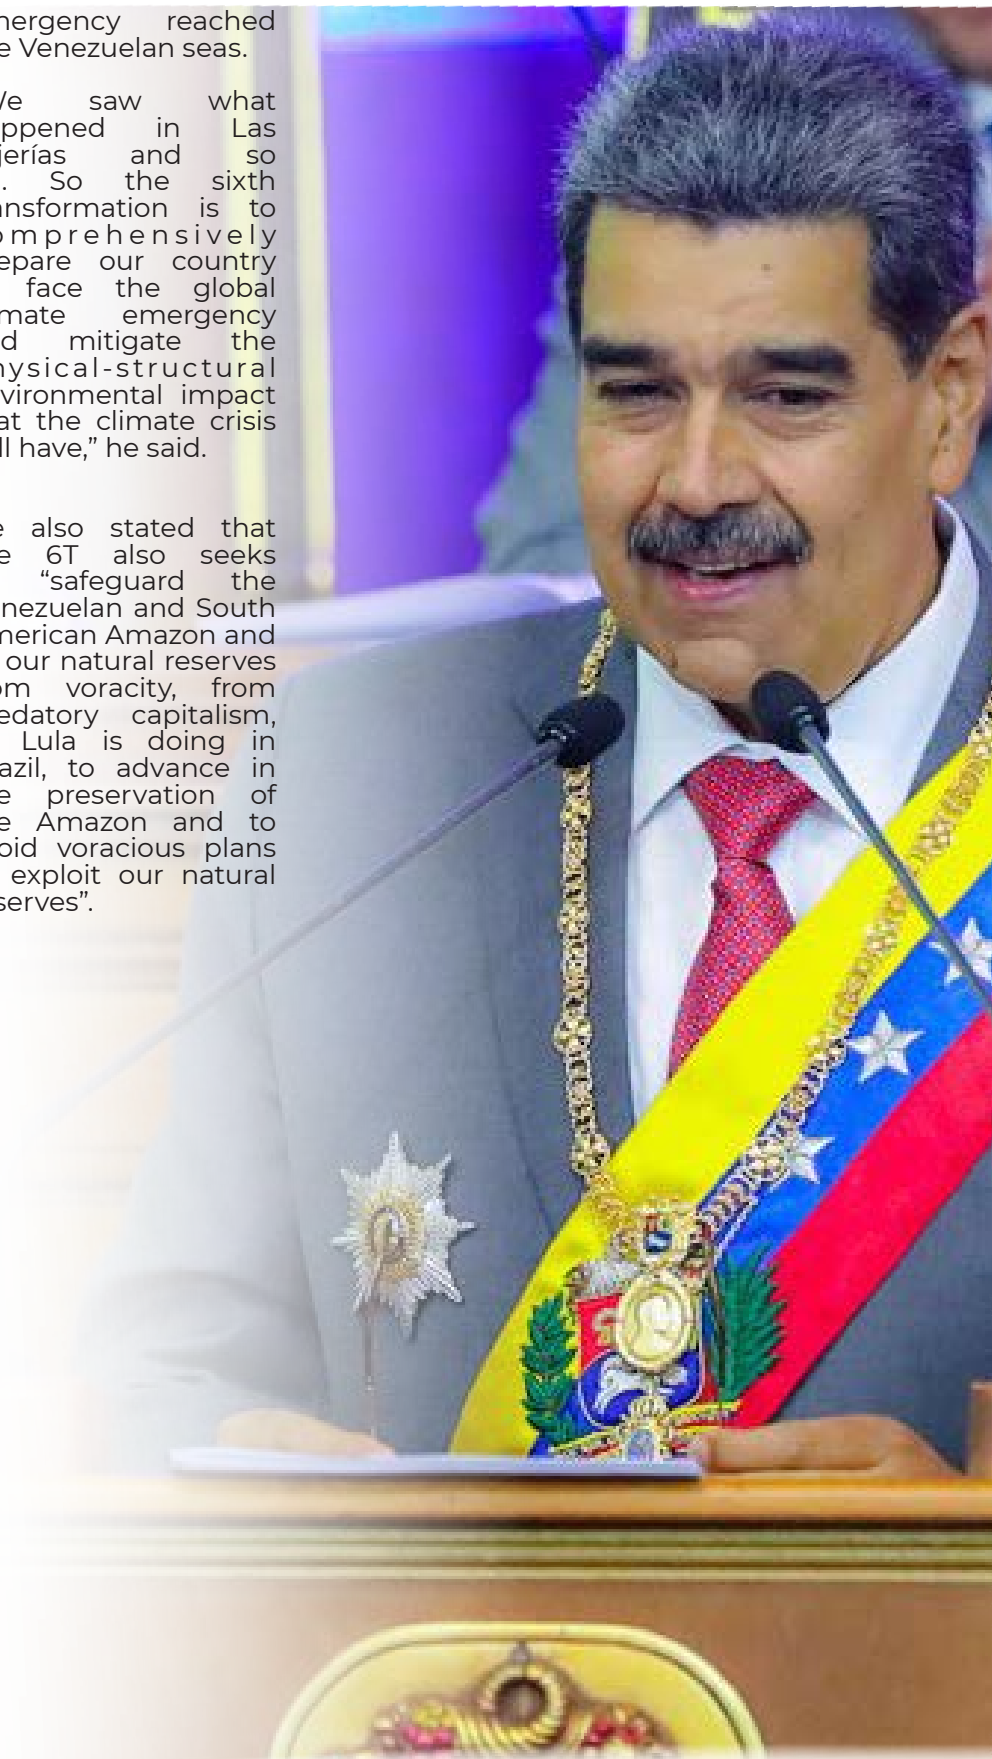

He recalled the case of some fishermen in the State of La Guaira who "went out to fish for tuna and in this season when the sea has to be cold, December, in January and February, the sea is warmer than ever (...) then they were able to fish, but what they were looking for, which was tuna, they did not get it", he highlighted.

The Venezuelan Head of State warned that the climate emergency reached the Venezuelan seas.

"We saw what happened in Las Tejerías and so on. So the sixth transformation is to comprehensively prepare our country to face the global climate emergency and mitigate the physical-structural environmental impact that the climate crisis will have," he said.

He also stated that the 6T also seeks to "safeguard the Venezuelan and South American Amazon and all our natural reserves from voracity, from predatory capitalism, as Lula is doing in Brazil, to advance in the preservation of the Amazon and to avoid voracious plans to exploit our natural reserves".

A recreational and green areas project is being developed

Commission for the Rescue of Lake Maracaibo inspects Ana Maria Campos Monumental Park

The rehabilitation includes multipurpose court spaces, bicycle paths, playground areas and walkways

The Presidential Commission for the Rescue, Conservation and Sustainable Development of Lake Maracaibo, headed by the Vice President for Public Works and Services, G/J Néstor Reverol, carried out an inspection of the Ana María Campos Monumental Park, located in the state of Zulia.

On the instructions of President Nicolás Maduro Moros, the operation works in the lake continue. On this occasion, in the Ana María Campos Monumental Park, a project is being developed with recreational spaces and green areas for the enjoyment of the population of Maracaibo.

During the inspection, the progress of the works of the first stage was verified, which includes multi-purpose courts, bicycle paths, children's play areas and a large extension of walkways for the healthy recreation of the resident families and visitors.

In this regard, the president of the Venezuela Bella Mission, Jacqueline Faria, stated that "the President has taught us in this new era, with this avalanche on Venezuela, with sanctions, with unilateral coercive measures, he has not stopped for a minute and he is doing his best, as he says".

He emphasized that the Head of State has sought the resources "to make this marvel, this transformation, a wasteland where terrible things used to happen, which was like a waste in the west of the city and today is one of the most beautiful parts of Maracaibo, a monumental park", said Faria.

For his part, the Minister of People's Power for Ecosocialism, Josué Lorca, detailed that the rehabilitated area comprises 4 hectares that will contain 5 interactive fountains so that boys and girls can play with water, 14 courts for all sports to be practiced and the largest skateboard park in Latin America.

"We continue working together to give the Venezuelan people spaces for healthy recreation," said Lorca.

The Bolivarian Government promotes daily environmental policies for the development, protection and preservation of ecosystems.

Venezuela gives shelter to a symbol of Basque life

Tree of Gernika sapling planted in Generalissimo Francisco de Miranda Recreation Park

The Ministry of People's Power for Ecosocialism (Minec), planted a "Tree of Gernika" in the Generalissimo Francisco de Miranda Recreation Park, east of Greater Caracas.

The "Tree of Gernika", symbolic of Biscay, Basque Country, is world famous for its location and historical representation. It is located in the town of Gernika and is remembered for the bombing carried out by the German and Italian air forces in 1937, in support of Franco during the Spanish Civil War.

The Consulate General of Venezuela in Bilbao, the General Assembly of Biscay and the Basque community in the country, expressed their interest in bringing the "Tree of Gernika" to Venezuela, as it represents an important political and social symbol, which has made it a distinctive symbol in the world.

The head of the Minec, Josué Lorca, was in the activity accompanied by the Minister of Culture, Ernesto Villegas; the Venezuelan Consul in Bilbao, Glenna Cabello; the Vice Minister for Europe, Franklin Ramírez and the General Director of Integration and International Affairs of the Minec, Miguel Serrano.

Lorca emphasized that "the 'Tree of Gernika' means for you history, life, resistance against death, against hate, against fascism, for us it means an incentive, a push to also continue walking the path you are walking".

He warned that the world is facing new forms of domination, of colonialism, "we feel very honored to receive this symbol, because as our Vice Chancellor said, part of the human essence is composed by the symbolologies", expressed Lorca.

Likewise, the Vice Minister for Europe, Franklin Ramírez, said he extended greetings to the entire Basque community residing in Venezuela and thanked the support to this initiative of planting this son of an emblem of the spirit of the resistance of the people of Gernika.

"In the construction of national identities, symbols play a fundamental role, they are the ones that unite us around the sense of being and belonging," Ramírez emphasized.

A survivor of the bombings of the Spanish Civil War residing in the country, born in Gernika, assured that she does not remember the bombings at all, but I remember when I arrived in Venezuela and saw the Avila and I said, I have enough with that mountain, it is the most beautiful thing that Caracas has, I am grateful for your visit, I am Gernikesa, even though I am Venezuelan, after 70 years I am still Gernikesa".

The president of the Basque Center in Caracas, Ibane Azpirtxaga, indicated that "like many who arrived in this country, this tree arrives as a well received foreigner. Venezuela will know how to give it shelter and will make this land its own. Planting this tree means a lot to all of us, perhaps for different reasons, that is why we must take care of it so that it allows us to remember those reasons why we are here today".
